

In Your Bones

Take all the bones from the big brass bed
Bury 'em out under a tree
Over the ridge there's a wild wolf howlin'
Got some kind a fix on me

Castaways stuck in the living room
Stranded in their 4 x 9
All of the while the doors are wide open
But they never stop and wonder why

You don't ever know
No you don't ever know, do you
You don't ever know
but you can feel it in your bones

Bodies laid out on the pavement
Soaking up the evening sun
Way out west there's a bad boy coming
Waiting for the night to come

You don't ever know
No you don't ever know, do you
You don't ever know
but you can feel it in your bones

Paint the white lines in the city
Spinning white blades on the hill
Puttin' white veils on the children
Burn the white flags if you will
Rivers flowin' out to the ocean
How many drops do we spill
If we can't turn it round
You can bet mother nature will

Bodies laid out on the pavement
Soaking up the evening sun
Way out west there's a bad boy coming
Waiting for the night to come

You don't ever know
No you don't ever know, do ya
You don't ever know
but you can feel it in your bones
